

SPEAKERS' BIOS

Janet H. Muri

Janet H. Muri is President of the National Perinatal Information Center/Quality Analytic Services (NPIC/QAS). She joined NPIC/QAS in 1988 serving as a consultant, then Data Coordinator, Director of Information Services, and Vice President prior to assuming her current position in 2007. Janet is responsible for the overall operational and strategic management of the organization, oversight on all collection, processing and analysis of clinical and financial data submitted by NPIC/QAS member hospitals and other state, federal and private data sources related to contract work conducted by NPIC/QAS. She is the principal on NPIC/QAS contracts including the Department of Defense Perinatal Performance Information Project, the Maryland Patient Safety Center Perinatal Collaborative, the Harvard Risk Management Strategies Foundation Team Performance Plus contract, the Georgia Regional Intensive Care Network project and The Joint Commission Core Measure Services activities.

Nancy Crawford

Nancy Crawford is Senior Vice President of Medical Staff Services for Woman's Hospital, a non-profit women's and infants hospital in Baton Rouge, Louisiana and the largest independently owned woman's hospital in the country. Approximately 8,000 infants are born at Woman's Hospital annually, representing approximately 15% of all babies born in Louisiana. Nancy has over 35 years of health care management experience and currently has organizational responsibility for health information management, quality, regulatory compliance, medical staff services and employed physicians. Nancy is the Past Chair of the AHA Maternal and Child Health Governing Council and continues to serve as a member of the council.

Bonnie Connors Jellen

Bonnie Connors Jellen is Director of the Section for Maternal and Child Health at the American Hospital Association (AHA) and is responsible for working with the over 2000 member hospitals providing specialty care to women and children. Over three decades, she has worked exclusively in the maternal and child health field including positions at the AHA, the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and on Capitol Hill for the Senate Committee on Labor and Human Resources, Subcommittee on Child and Human Development. Bonnie has been active in many organizations including committee appointments at the March of Dimes, the Alan Guttmacher Institute, and other national and local child health initiatives. Bonnie has an undergraduate degree in Child Development from the University of Massachusetts Amherst, and a graduate degree in Health Services Administration from The George Washington University, Washington, DC.