

Chair

James W. Eyler, FACHE

Chief Executive Officer

Coliseum Psychiatric Center

Macon, Georgia

James W. (Jim) Eyler, has contributed in a great many ways to the field of psychiatric and addictive disease services over many years. His initial involvement was as a Red Cross patient activities volunteer at The Delaware State Hospital while still in high school. He continued as a paid summer employee while in college, and returned to the field in a consulting role with Charter Medical Corporation after completing graduate school. He holds a Bachelors degree in Economics from The University of Virginia, and an MBA in Health Care Administration from The George Washington University.

With Charter Medical, Jim was a consultant, a corporate planner, a hospital CEO, a corporate executive in Sales & Marketing and served as Executive Director of Charter's psychiatric hospital IT demonstration project called "Best Value". Subsequent positions in consulting and operations focused on management and strategic planning consulting for behavioral health services in public, tax-exempt, and tax-paying organizations. Over the years he has served as an advisory board member of a state Mental Health Association in Georgia and a Community Mental Health Center in Virginia. Jim has been a Board Member and President of the Georgia Behavioral Health Coalition representing the interests of independent behavioral health providers in Georgia, and a representative on the Georgia Hospital Association's Psychiatric and Substance Abuse Council as well as its predecessor, the Professional Services Council. He served as a member of the American College of Healthcare Executives' (ACHE) Book of the Year Committee for three years, and chaired the committee in 2005. In his consulting days he was a Credentialed member of the American Association of Healthcare Consultants, specializing in strategic planning for behavioral health providers.

A Fellow in the ACHE, Jim has presented multiple times at the ACHE Congress, the Academy of Health Services Marketing, the Association of Mental Health Administrators' Annual Management Institute, the NAPHS Annual Meeting and the AHA Psychiatric and Substance Abuse Section Annual Meeting on diverse subjects including marketing, new service development, geropsychiatric trends, strategic alliances and creating behavioral health partnerships.

Currently Jim is CEO of Coliseum Center for Behavioral Health, a freestanding psychiatric hospital, one of three HCA hospitals operated as a health system in Middle Georgia. Jim is a board member and actively participates in the affairs of Coliseum Health System and advises Corporate and regional offices of HCA regarding behavioral health. He serves on the Board of the Alzheimer's Association of Central Georgia as well as the Macon Volunteer Clinic, and serves as Major in The Georgia Wing of Civil Air Patrol, a USAF Auxiliary.

Jim resides in the Macon, GA area with his wife Kel-Ann and family. He enjoys church and family activities, and plays golf whenever he can.
