

Alan London, MD

Vice President, Strategic Clinical Partnerships, Walgreens Co.

Alan London is the Vice President, Strategic Clinical Partnerships, Walgreen Co., providing strategic leadership in designing and building clinically integrated health system relationships for Walgreens. He also provides strategic direction and leadership for Healthcare Clinic's service expansion, quality, clinical education and training, and collaborative physician practice agreement functions. Prior to this position, he was Chief Medical Officer for Take Care Health Systems and helped lead the clinical service expansion, quality, clinical education/training and health system affiliations for the 400+ Retail Clinic division.

Dr. London is a family physician with more than three decades of experience in patient care delivery, healthcare strategy and business development. He has worked within the managed care contracting and risk management fields, while also spending extensive time in the hospital and healthcare system setting, serving at the Cleveland Clinic for 12 years. Most recently, Dr. London was the President of the London Group International, a firm providing innovative healthcare solutions for health systems, insurers, governments, physicians, and the investment community. He is a co-founder of two healthcare companies, Clinically Home, LLC and MX.com.

Dr. London holds a number of professional appointments including membership on the Physician Advisory Council for WellPoint and served for seven years as Director on the Board of Advocate Physician Partners in Chicago. He earned a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Cincinnati and received his MD from the Medical College of Ohio. He then completed a residency in family medicine from the University of California, Irvine.