Safety News

Dear Colleague,

I am excited to share some good news: Thanks to the efforts of a community partnership that included the University of Maryland Rehabilitation & Orthopaedic Institute, working in collaboration with the Baltimore Police, the BP gas station at the corner of N. Forest Park and Windsor Mill Road had a grand reopening Monday under new management.

The gas station was closed by police in June of 2016 under a law that allows it to “padlock” problem businesses. The station has reportedly been the site of drug activity and related crime. At a press conference Monday, Baltimore Mayor Catherine Pugh thanked the community and business groups for working with police to stop illegal activity in this area. In addition to new management, that location now features new security measures, including 24/7 surveillance cameras to detect and detour any problems.

Thanks to B. Lynn Williams, UM Rehab’s security coordinator, and many others who played key roles in this community partnership work to make this area adjacent to UM Rehab safer.

The safety of our employees and patients is our top priority, and we are pleased to have served a role in this important effort to make our community safer

Key Role of the Hospital

These efforts need to be a working collaboration with the Police, the Business Community and Community groups along with our Hospitals.

Hospitals can play a key role in several key areas:

- Organization
- Financial
- Political Pressure
- Economic Pressure
